They accompanied. I took a Horse & Buggy, and with Mr. Hawthorn, drove to Shelton, for the purpose of searching Blake's Trunk. I there mingled with his woman, and got at the trunk. I searched it but could find no counterfeit money, but I found different things, there, which he evidently had stolen, but as that was not my business, I left the trunk, bringing all his papers away with me, at Shelton. I searched the papers, which showed him, to have been in everything that was bad. I found among them, a Commission from J. G. Davis, signed by Judah S. Benjamin allowing him to pass through their lines, &c. and at the same time he held passes from most of the Union generals of the army of the Potomac allowing him to establish himself in the he had also a detective papers, from Shelton Hawthorn.
